Artwork Budget: $44,000

Artist Information Meeting: Monday, January 14th, 2019

Deadline to Apply: 5:00 PM CST, Thursday, February 14th, 2019

Project Summary

The City of Austin Art in Public Places (AIPP) program of the Cultural Arts Division, Economic Development Department seeks to commission a durable, permanent exterior public artwork that reflects the character of the Rosewood neighborhood and thoughtfully considers the history and everyday use of the Rosewood Neighborhood Park.

Project Background

Located at the intersection of Rosewood Avenue and North Pleasant Valley Road, Rosewood Neighborhood Park is a 17-acre public park that includes a swimming pool, tennis courts, baseball fields, picnic areas, a splash pad, the Delores Duffie Recreation Center and the Doris “Dorie” Miller Auditorium. The park offers year-round classes, workshops, special events, tournaments, performances, and demonstrations.

Historically, the site of the park served as the home and property of local store owner Rudolph Bertram. In 1875, Bertram built the 14-room limestone block house that serves as the Recreation Center today. In 1928, the City of Austin purchased the house and land for the purpose of creating a segregated park for the African American community. In 1929, a playground and after-school program, were established at the site. The swimming pool, tennis courts, and other amenities were added in the 1930’s. In 1973, the historic Henry Green Madison cabin was re-assembled on the park property. In 1974, the cabin was named a State Historical Site by the Texas Historical Commission.

New Bathhouse Facility

A popular feature of Rosewood Neighborhood Park is its aquatics facilities. Improvements to the pool area, such as the addition of a splash pad, have been ongoing since 2009. The next phase of these improvements is the creation of a new bathhouse facility. The City has hired METHODarchitecture to design the structure. The new structure will include restrooms, showers, exterior water fountains, and an entrance gate. Currently, the construction project is on schedule to be installed by late 2019.

Artwork Opportunity

The selected artist or team will be charged with integrating artwork into or adjacent to the design of the new bathhouse structure. The medium and location of the artwork will be determined through discussions between the artist, community stakeholders, the design team and the AIPP Panel. The artist(s) is/are expected to gather community input in the development of their design. Potential locations for artwork include, but are not limited to, the north-facing wall of the bathhouse, the fence around the pool area, and adjacent landscape areas. Due to the challenges for maintenance of the artwork, only artwork of substantial durability and low maintenance needs will be considered.

Budget

The AIPP 2% funding for this project comes from the 2012 Bond. The total award for an artist contract is $44,000, inclusive of design, fabrication and installation, including engineering and permitting fees, travel and shipping expenses, insurance and other project-related costs.

Public Art Goals & Priorities

The Art in Public Places program seeks to commission works of art of redeeming quality that advance public understanding of visual art and enhance the aesthetic quality of public places through the selection of a qualified artist or artist team who can innovatively and thoughtfully design within the context of this project. The goal of the Rosewood Neighborhood Park AIPP Project is to select an artist/artist team who will design artwork that:

- reflects the nature and character of the Rosewood Neighborhood Park and Pool;
- conceptualizes a strong overall artwork design approach that Integrates with the site and the required signage for the project;
- is consistent with and mindful of the historic values of the Rosewood community and Rosewood Neighborhood Park site;
- is easily maintained and vandal resistant in an exterior environment; and
- contributes to the depth/breadth of the City of Austin’s public art collection.

Artist Scope of Work

Community Engagement Phase

Once selected, the artist will engage with the Rosewood neighborhood community and the design team and consider their response in preparing the final design. The artist will work with AIPP staff in planning and executing community engagement, meeting(s), outreach and community participation.

Design Phase

After the artist has engaged the community, they will submit the following material for the final design proposal:

- Written Narrative describing the proposed artwork, including relationship of the artwork to the location, compatibility with the community/neighbors in proximity to the site, and installation plan. The narrative should describe how the artist engaged with the community. The selected artist or artist team will define the process of installation, including if he or she intends to contract a third-party for, or engage the community for assistance with, installation.
- In-Context Images of proposed artwork, such as sketches or renderings showing what the artwork will look like in place at the proposed site. The artist will determine the artistic expression, scope, design, color, size, material and texture of the artwork in conversation with the community surrounding the project location, subject to approval by the City.
- Preliminary Itemized Budget including a materials list which conveys the installation method to be used. The artists will be responsible for development of a final budget to include all costs to create the mural including but not limited to installation, de-installation, site restoration, permitting, and insurance. A sample budget sheet can be found online at: <http://austintexas.gov/department/aipp-resources>. Tools or equipment for fabrication or installation are considered capital assets and are not eligible expenses. Rental of tools or equipment are acceptable expenses. No fund matching or crowd sourcing may be applied.

Installation Phase

In addition, the selected artist or team will provide the following services:

- Site Preparation. The artist is responsible for preparing the site to receive art. For artwork on the bathhouse itself, this includes cleaning the surface of the wall and removing loose debris and, in the instance of a painted mural, priming the mural area in advance of painting.
- Safety. The artist is responsible for working safely within the public space, redirecting any pedestrian traffic so that there is no conflict with artist work space.

- Installation. The artist is responsible for fabricating and installing the artwork or overseeing its fabrication and installation.

Commitment to Equity

Art in Public Places embraces cultural equity. It is the goal of the program to ensure as many people as possible have meaningful engagements with public art and access to viewing, experiencing, and creating artwork. AIPP actively seeks to provide members of historically underrepresented communities, which can include identities such as Black or African-American, Arab-American, Asian-American, Hispanic or LatinX, Pacific Islander, Indigenous Nations, LGBTQIA, or a person with a disability, with equitable access to public art opportunities. In support of this commitment, the program will make every effort to expand access to the collection and programmatic decision-making. For each project, every effort will be made to comprise project selection panels and finalist pools for AIPP commissions with representatives from a variety of historically underrepresented communities to better reflect the diversity of Austin.
