

GLENDALE

CITYWIDE PUBLIC ART LANDMARKS RFQ

The City of Glendale aims to become an arts and culture destination in the Los Angeles metropolitan region. Reflecting on its diverse population, history and innovation in public spaces, the City seeks to further enrich the day-to-day experiences of the community with its emphasis on the importance of arts and culture. The Arts and Culture Commission (ACC) realizes this vision by consciously integrating arts and culture into the daily life of the people of Glendale. As community stewards of the arts, the ACC is responsible for advising City Council on the use of the City's Urban Art Fund, and recommending how the City should invest in the Arts.

As part of the City of Glendale's initiative to become a prime arts and culture destination, up to ten long-term to permanent artwork installations will be commissioned, developed and established over the course of the next few years. These landmark installations will be strategically placed throughout the City in locations that focus on public accessibility and encourage public engagement and interactivity.

We envision a public art program that draws in the local community and is highly alluring to the greater LA area and visitors/tourists.

OVERALL PROJECT OPPORTUNITY

This call for artists will reach out for multiple unique project opportunities. The aim across the various artwork opportunities is to create world-class public artwork in a diverse range of mediums that are designed to engage the community, showcase the cultural diversity of the City and enhance the various civic and public spaces.

Each location is different and asks for its own unique mediums utilizing highly imaginative and forward-thinking approaches. Selected artists and artist teams will be asked to demonstrate creative applications to support the building and activation of a city and community interconnected by its public art.

We encourage Artists and Artist Teams to review the opportunities and consider how their own practice relates to the conceptual and visual demands and how their art practice might address the stated project goals. When applying to the RFQ, Artists and Artist Teams may apply for one or multiple opportunities that they feel they can develop strong concepts and visions for.

UNDERSTANDING THE CITY OF GLENDALE

Glendale has a wealth of assets that can be amplified through visual arts and cultural activities. The City, founded in 1906, evokes specific images for its residents and people who visit it. Glendale is bordered by the Verdugo Mountains and surrounded by other mountain ranges. It boasts gracious hillside homes that reflect a diverse architectural heritage, lush landscape, freeways, and the large flat expanse of South Glendale that was once rich farm and ranchland but now contains modest homes, apartments and condominiums. Glendale was originally populated by the Tongva people. Glendale is also notable for its remarkable accessibility to key Los Angeles neighborhoods and other municipalities.

Glendale has a large Armenian population, in addition to Black, Latinx, Korean, and Filipino communities. Glendale has openly acknowledged its unfortunate history of racial discrimination, apologizing and committing to atone for these practices in a formal resolution issued in September 2020 - making it the first city in California and third city in the nation to do so. Additionally, in 2017 the City Council passed a resolution against LGBT discrimination. The City's recognition of its diversity is reflected in its arts and cultural offerings, its political life, its neighborhoods and its many language-immersion programs. Glendale is also a regional shopping destination, with the Glendale Galleria, The Americana at Brand, the Brand Boulevard of Cars. Downtown Glendale contains a mix of department stores, chains, and small independent businesses. Lastly, San Fernando Boulevard is a media-tech corridor for many film-related businesses including DreamWorks Animation and Walt Disney Studios. Glendale's Tech Strategy provides a road map for growing Glendale's technology-based business sector.

Over the last decade, Downtown Glendale has been transforming with the creation of the Downtown Strategic Plan and the support of the former Redevelopment Agency and the Department of Community Development. Condominiums and apartment buildings have joined the already bustling retail environment. The presence of more and more people living downtown, particularly Millennials, has led Glendale toward envisioning an “18-hour downtown.” The City recognizes the need to provide more arts and cultural activities to encourage activity day and night.

The City of Glendale’s position as an arts and cultural destination has been bolstered by Redevelopment Agency and City investments in cultural infrastructure including:

- The Alex Theatre
- Brand Library & Art Center
- The Japanese Tea House and Garden
- The Doctor’s House
- Verdugo Adobe
- ReflectSpace exhibits in the Downtown Central Library
- Antaeus Theatre
- ACE 121 Gallery and artist live/work space
- Museum of Neon Art
- Casa Adobe de San Rafael

In addition, there are numerous multi-cultural organizations and a sprinkling of art galleries located around the City. Outdoor performing arts events, including summer concerts in Verdugo Park and the Brand Library Plaza Series, have become more popular every year. And, while Glendale’s Redevelopment Agency no longer exists, it left an indelible legacy of arts infrastructure and urban design.

All these assets contribute to the City’s cultural potential. Now is the time to look at Glendale’s arts and cultural activities and find ways to support them, amplify them and make them more visible.
